Useful info for when in Zagreb/Croatia

The Croatian currency is the Kuna (HRK, kn), with one kuna containing 100 lipa. There are coins of 1, 2, 5 and 25 kuna and 1, 5, 10, 20, 50 lipa. Banknotes have denominations of 10, 20, 50, 100, 200, 500 and 1000 kuna. Approximate exchange rates (May 2019) are: 1 EUR = 7.42 kn; 1 US$ = 6.63 kn; 1 GBP = 8.69 kn, 100 RUB = 10,43 kn.

As in other EU countries, most shops, hotels and restaurants accept Mastercard - Eurocard, VISA, Diners Club. There are many ATMs in the city, and several in the vicinity of the main venue (look for the “bankomat” sign): Ivana Lučića 6 (right across the street from the Faculty); Ivana Lučića 2; Ulica grada Vukovara 60; Ulica grada Vukovara 70; Savska 25 (UNIZG Student Centre). ATMs dispense the local currency. Operating hours at banks are generally from 8:00-18:00 (08:00-12:00 on Saturdays). While it is possible to exchange foreign currency to kuna at all banks, exchange rates tend to be better in currency exchange offices that have similar opening hours to banks (except for those at the main train and bus station that stay open for 24 hours). Most larger hotels offer currency exchange service. On Sundays and public holidays both banks and exchange offices are closed - except for the bank at the airport or shopping malls which is 24/7 even on holidays. Most shops work 09:00-20:00 on weekdays, and close by 15:00 on Saturdays. On Sundays and public holidays, pharmacies remain on duty for 24 hours and most groceries are open until midday.

Tap water in Zagreb and elsewhere in Croatia is drinkable and of a high quality.

While in Croatia, whether you are a visitor or a long term resident, it is important to know who to contact in case of an emergency. There are also a few other national services that could prove helpful during your time here.

For emergency, call 112.

Here are a list of the other numbers to call depending on what you need help with.

- 192 – Police
- 193 – Fire Brigade
- 194 – Ambulance
- 195 – Search and Rescue if at sea
- 1987 – Road Assistance
- 01 4640 800 – HAK (Croatian Automobile Club)

11888 – Telephone Directory
18166 – Weather Forecast
18981 – General Information

If you are a visitor and need to call from a foreign number, precede the number with +385. +385 is the country code for Croatia. In calling a Croatian number that has an “0” at the beginning, remove it if also using the country code.

Zagreb

The history of Zagreb, the capital of independent Croatia since 1991, starts in the 11th century with two settlements: Kaptol and Gradec that grew (through some bitter fighting) gradually into one town by the beginning of the modern era. Zagreb has seen its share of war, famine, plague, as well as successful trade, real estate booms and prosperity like most European capitals. Even though coastal towns like Dubrovnik or Split tend to steal the limelight in most travel brochures on Croatia, it will not take you long to realize that Zagreb is a gem of a city, with a lively centre full of street cafes, a medieval Upper town and delightful quarters of Habsburg-era buildings in Lower town complemented by green suburbs, the Sava river, two lakes, and the splendour of the Medvenica mountains rising behind the city.

Getting around in Zagreb

Zagreb runs an efficient public transport system and is easy to navigate, as most of the city is interconnected with the central square, Trg bana Josipa Jelačića. Gornji grad – the Upper town, the once location of Kaptol and Gradec – lies north of the square and is connected to Lower town (Donji grad) via the funicular railway (Zagrebačka uspinjača) running from Ilica Street to Strossmayerovo šetalište. Trams are the best way for getting around the fairly compact centre of Zagreb: there are 15 tram routes going throughout the major locations, and many stop either at Trg bana Jelačića or at the main train station. During the day the trams run every 5-10 minutes, while at night the intervals rise to 40 minutes. The bus system is used primarily for getting around the suburbs and the fringes of central Zagreb. Tickets for trams and buses can be bought at newsstands (paper tickets, which are the cheapest), and from the driver of the vehicle (you will need to have small change) and cost from 4 to 10kn (appr. € 0,6 to €1.20) for daily transport (the price depends on length of the ride – 30, 60 or 90 minutes) and 15kn (appr. € 2) for the night rides (00:00-04:00). Daily tickets cost 30kn, three day tickets cost 70kn, seven day tickets 150kn, fifteen day tickets 200kn, and a monthly ticket costs 400kn. At the newsstands, you may buy tramvajska karta, sold in singles or in packs of ten; or the vrijednosna kartica (rechargeable electronic card), charged with a certain sum of money. If you buy a paper ticket, remember to always validate it once you board: the ticket validation machines are located at the front and back of trams and buses.

<http://www.zet.hr/en>

Zagreb’s public transport system includes two tourist bus routes that operate a hop-on/hop-off service. The tours depart from Bakačeva ulica, near the Cathedral at Kaptol. The red route operates in the heart of the city (12.5km, runs every 90min from 12:00-19:00), whilst the green route is longer (32.5km, leaves every 120min from 14:00-17:20), taking tourists to places like the Maksimir park and Lake Budek. Tickets cost 70 kn (approximately €9) for adults or 35 kn (€4.50) for children under 7 for a full day; tickets can be purchased from the driver. You can download route maps from www.zet.hr or pick one up from the ZET offices at Petrićeva 4 and Ozaljska 105.

Taxis

There are three taxi stands within walking distance of Trg bana Josipa Jelačića, Zagreb's main square: south of Flower Square (Cvjetni trg), on Mesnička Street (towards Upper Town), and just west of the Croatian National Theatre. There are several taxi companies servicing Zagreb. Locals recommend that when you are in need of several taxis at the same time, and in a hurry, you should opt for Radio Taxi, as they have more cars. However, Radio Taxi cannot always provide receipts. Taxi Cammeo and EkoTaxi, however, can be ordered online and provide receipts. Both have apps you can download on iPhone and Android stores respectively.

Radio Taxi Zagreb

Phone +385 1 6600 671 or +385 1 6601 235 or 1777 from a Croatian number (there is a fee to call both of these numbers). <https://radiotaxizagreb.com/hr/>

Taxi Cammeo can be ordered online via <http://taxi-cammeo.hr/> Phone +385 1 12 12 or +385 060 71 00 or 1212 from a Croatian number. <https://cammeo.hr/en>

EkoTaxi brand themselves as the "green" option, as they use hybrid cars in their fleet. Book online via <http://www.ekotaxi.hr/en/#order> or phone +385 1 14 14 or +385 099 456 04 55 or 1414 from Croatian numbers. <https://www.ekotaxi.hr/en>

Zagreb by bike

It is possible to rent a bike to get around in Zagreb. Bike lanes are marked - though not everywhere in the city, and perhaps not with complete consistency. The city is described as bike-friendly and fairly well navigable. Find out more: <http://www.zagrebbybike.com/rent-a-bike>

Sightseeing in Zagreb

If you want to walk around in Zagreb, we recommend a walk in the cobblestoned Gornji Grad, in the Upper Town, and a visit to Stone Gate (Kamenita vrata), a shrine to the Virgin Mary which remains an active place of worship. On the Kaptol Hill stands the Gothic Zagreb Cathedral of Assumption, "the most monumental sacral building in neo-Gothic style southeast of the Alps". Nearby is the Croatian government and Parliament. By descending to Tkalčićeva street you reach one of the liveliest downtown streets, leading to the main green market Dolac and then the main square and the main street (Ilica). South of Ilica are Cvjetni trg, the flower square, with many coffee and pastry shops, as well as restaurants in the nearby Nikola Tesla street. Just a few minutes away is one of the nicest squares of Zagreb, the Square of Marshal Tito, with the National Theatre, UNIZG Rector's office, Academy of Music, the Museum of Arts and Crafts and the Ethnographic Museum.

Find out more: <http://www.zagreb-touristinfo.hr/explore-zagreb/sightseeing>

Nearby Outdoor Activities

If you would like to hike in Croatia, but have little time to spare, we recommend going to the Medvednica mountain just outside of Zagreb. Medvednica is so close that you can take a tram to the foot of the mountain (no. 14 from the main square, get off at the last stop), and then walk up to Sljeme, the highest peak of the Medvednica Mountain. There are many hiking trails and also quite a few great places to eat out there! If you are into watersports, check out Jarun Lake in southern Zagreb. Take tram 5 or 17 to Jarun and follow signs to the jezero (lake). On arrival, head left to Malo Jezero for swimming, canoeing, or pedal-boat rental, or, head right to Veliko Jezero, where there's a pebble beach and windsurfing.

Croatians are into ‘coffee-drinking’; if you get an invitation for coffee, it is actually an invitation for socializing, which can last for hours and include various other drinks. Coffee shops are all around town, smoking is usually permitted (which should not be a problem in the summertime as most of them have outside sitting space).
